“ Brandon you had such a positive impact on everyone you talked with and the class of 2011 as a whole. I don't think I will ever forget your smile or the in-between class trips we took to 5 guys or subway. The countless number of times you helped me with my car did not go unnoticed! I knew if I ever had a problem or question with anything you were always there. Especially if it involved cars. I only wish we could go grab lunch at least one more time and have one more conversation. Life is way too short but the impressions you left on this world will last forever.. Miss you lots Brandon!! See you on the other side but for, now rest easy.

“ Brandon you were such an amazing friend to me from day one as well as everyone else. When i think of you i think of one of the friendliest, happiest, most respectful person i knew. You always had a smile on your face and never failed to make me laugh. You always listened to me vent and gave me your input. Anytime you saw me in school you would call me over to say hi or come sit with me to talk even if it was only for a minute, i am going to miss that so much. It's so weird not seeing you every week at school, i wish more than anything that i could have just one more talk with you, but i do still talk to you everyday. I am so lucky to have known you and to have had you as a friend. Our memories are forever kept in my heart and I am going to miss you more than you'd ever know.

“ Brandon <3

I can't get over how amazing you are. There are not many guys out in the world that are as generous, caring, and lovable as you. I loved seeing you at the mall when we were on break. I turned the corner that one day and I saw your sweet smiling face walking towards me. You always had a smile on your face. I loved it so much. You always would reach out to me when you knew I was hurting. You always could put a smile on my face. I remember us having bio together sophomore year and that was the first time you told me I was beautiful. I could not have been more happy hearing that from you. I always had a crush on you, always thought you were so handsome and attractive, and to know that you had felt the same way towards me always made me feel so giddy. However, we liked each other at the wrong times, which does make me sad. I also remember seeing you almost everyday last year at NCC. We would walk to class and just talk, catch up, and laugh. You always had a smile on your face when you were with me and I could never stop smiling when I was with you. The last thing you said to me in person was that you wanted to hang out soon and plan our breaks accordingly so we could have more time with each other. I am going to miss you so much. My promise to you is that I will do my best to be a great role model for Hayley just like you were and I will always help your mom out just like you would. She messaged me and told me that you thought the world of me....I think the universe of you. I can not wait till the day we meet again and can finally date and make our sisters happy that we are finally together since they were always trying to hook us up. I know you are with me and with everyone that loves you. See you soon, love you <3

“ Brandon,

I have missed you so much in these past few days... i've written out so many texts but got really sad when i realized i couldn't send them. You were and are still an amazing friend and i am so happy you got to meet Gavin and i saw you two weeks ago.. I still wish i could've hugged and talked to you longer but that twenty minutes were the greatest twenty minutes of the last few months for me. You helped me through a lot in the last year and being friends for the last two was amazing. Your smile every time you surprised me at dunks used to make my weeks on end and i wish i got the chance to tell you that. I still remember the day at work we realized we had met when we were really young probably because my dad was your parents boss at Costco and ever sense that day we were really good friends. Texting during work at EMA got me through those long four never ending hours and the day you told me you were leaving for Apple was one of the saddest days ever. The days where you ease dropped on my conversations and would always think i was talking about the dirtiest grosses things because you'd miss the beginning part of the conversation or how you'd leave me little surprises on my desk and told Jim that the new suggestion for the office was to fire me and replace me with a new vending machine. You always made me laugh so much. Going back to work on monday is going to be really hard looking at your desk next to me remembering you eating your walmart chicken and drinking your arnold palmer. Thank you so much for always sharing your food with me when i was massively pregnant. You never once judged me or any postioon i got myself into and when everything started to go south you stepped up as a friend and helped me work through it all. You have such an amazing soul and heart and i promise when i see you again in heaven i'll impress you with how good i am at changing my own oil and driving a stick shift. I know you were going to teach me those things this summer but i am still going to learn in memory of you. Your picture will forever hang in my cubical and i will always think of you <3 rip.

“ Brandon you are one person I will never forget! Your kind nature and contagious smile is one thing I will always admire from you! I remember senior year in our media class how we'd always talk. You were buzz lightyear on my dogdeball team and we made all of our shirts right before the game. We were called "Story of the Toy" because we couldn't use our original team name hahaha! I enjoyed your little visits walking through DSG and stopping by to say "Hi" and telling me how you were doing. I'll miss you always stopping by and saying how you, Shana and I, all need to hang out. I'll regret that we didn't have that chance. Your parents and family raised an amazing young man. My deepest sympathies to the entire family! You're heaven's little angel now;
"You're one of Heaven's angels now
A perfect little star,
And when you shine, the world can see
How beautiful you are.
May you fly with magic wings
On clouds so soft and white,
May your heart be joyful
And your days be bathed in light.
And though our hearts are broken
And your life was far too short,
We thank you, sweetest angel,
For the happiness you brought.”
