“ One summer, when we were teeny-boppers, we kept watching Grease over and over again until the VHS tape was scorching hot.

“ Carol came to stay at my home for a couple of weeks in 88. One morning we had trouble getting Belinda to wake up. I ran downstairs and got the ice from the freezer and went back upstairs and threw it in the bed with Belinda. I never saw Carol laugh SO hard. She was in the door way bent over holding her sides.

“ I shared this with the Class of 88 Facebook group and thought I'd share these poems I had from Carol. I remember she loved to write and I've kept a number of poems she shared with me when we were in high school.
Condolences to her entire family.

*Alaska to me...
Warm, sunny, nice to be mountains rich with nature's life.
Snow, ice, flowers, trees You'll find all of these people too... they're nice to know
One thing they're missing though...

*Memories
Those summer days
and winter ways... of these I know
the best to be,
in me.*

“ When Carol worked at 9 Acre we went there one night and tried to make a donuts for sale sign. We couldn't remember how to spell. We were trying to be fancy and write "doughnuts " but we kept running out of room on the sign and messing up the letters. We were arguing about the middle part of the word and it just didn't look right on the sign. So the guy that was working that night said to spell it "donuts." We never even thought if that! We were laughing so hard because we really showed we are true blondes that night.

“ The best was one Christmas when we were playing "It's a Dirty Shame" and she had the Cupcake Bank - she was so excited to finally have an eggless cupcake. Mairs

“ She had cold feet. I used to sleep over a lot and she had a full size bed so we shared it instead of one of us in the floor. Always had cold feet and during the night I ended being the warmer for her. Every stinking time. 😏😏😏
