“ Dave was a kind and compassionate man who was always happy to help. He rescued me so many times from a technology maze that it would be hard for me to count how many. He would always do so with a great sense of humour, diligence and kindness, even when I was miles away on the other side of the earth, at a time when he should probably not have been looking at a computer screen. I will miss him around the office but I am thankful that I have crossed his path for the past six years at Oxfam. I hope he found peace. My most sincere condolences to Virginia and her family. With love, Sophie.
