“ I'd like to start by giving my condolences to the family. I knew Dube from highschool. We lived on the same road and became friends. When I think of Dube the one memory that comes to mind, and there's a quiet a few, is the day my cousin Diane came to visit me. We walk down the street and Dube and his friend (I won't say his name, but many will know exactly who) we're working on a car. We stop to talk for a little while and Dube looks at my cousin and said, " you want to see how tough this guy is?" Without any hesitation he took a big wrench and swung, hitting his friend in the leg! My cousin's chin dropped as she stepped back. (His friend has a prosthetic leg, but she didn't know that) of course he didn't feel it so he didn't even move. Dube's face was priceless looking at my cousin's reaction. I remember laughing along with him knowing them both well. I thought I'd share that, because I'm sure you can picture the entire thing play out in your mind. Dube, R.I.P. I'm sure you are happy to be reunited with your son. See you on the other side.
