“ I never meet in person Fernando (or Vilo as my mother called him) my great uncle, but somehow he's name was always mention thru the years in our home. My mother always mentions him with a lot of sympathy and enthusiasm. So, for how I much I love and trust my mother I believe he was a great uncle. I remember years before he died he visited my mother in Puerto Rico and later he also sent her a gift on her birthday. This something I did appreciated a lot. In representation of our family my most sincere condolences to great uncle's Vilo family.

“ My Opa was an outstanding husband, father, and grandfather, and would have no doubt been the best great-grandfather my son Jaden could have had.

I will always remember him for his smile, Puerto Rican accent, his advice about life and success, and his part in raising me from a baby to now. Just because he is physically gone does not mean he won't continue to influence my life and decisions.

My sister and brother and I were able to spend so much of our childhood connecting and loving and being loved by our Oma and Opa, memories that belong to us and that will help us get through these times. He always said he "raised" the three of us.... Just recently he left me a handwritten note, "To my matchless granddaughter." One thing is for sure, he and my Oma provided the best love and an experience between grandchildren and grandparent that is "matchless."

I love you, Oma and Opa. Thank you for everything. Opa will continue to protect us.... Now he has a little more oversight from his new place in heaven.##imported-begin##Jennifer##imported-end##
