“ Roy's Dad was an orphan who went to work in his early teens in a jewelry factory. 20 years later he was the General Manager with dozens of employees to supervise and guide. All of those employees respected and more significantly, they loved him. Ron Carsten's observations here of his relationship with Roy show that there was DNA absorbed by Roy that guided his approach to life and people. I was envious and sometimes jealous of his remarkable nature to support, nurture and comfort all that were fortunate to know him.

“ Dave is one of our best friends up north here, and I know that his own integrity, decency, and all-around good nature didn't happen by accident, but rather from great parents, and a pretty special father. Reading these comments, that's very apparent.

“ My sincere condolences to Roy's family.

I worked with Roy for many years; he was my first supervisor after college and taught me much. He was one of the best engineers I ever met; a national asset through his work with the defense industry. Roy was a man of immense integrity with the courage to do what was right, no matter what it may have cost him. There are many of us who will always remember him as our patient teacher, willing to forgive our mistakes as long as we learned from them. Roy was a man after which to model one's own life, and he will be missed.

“ *Rose and family,
When we remember Roy we, of course, think of the family. Then it comes to mind how he loved the outdoors and what a beautiful area he created in his backyard. Living next door we got to enjoy all the birds that were attracted to the yard. From our first meeting at Abbie's Landing before our houses were finished we knew we wanted Rose and Roy for neighbors. He was a very caring and helpful person. We can't begin to express how our little community will feel his loss.*

Our hearts go out to you and your family,
