“ Hey Matt, you were the best. Made my day with every visit and every phone call. You are loved by our family and your loss is enormous for each of us. I’m so happy you told me how much you love me because I could respond with the same words. I know our lives have changed forever, I would do whatever it would take to change time. I now wish you to rest peacefully. We do feel your presence and love you to the moon buddy. You are our angel, watch over us, you are in my prayers always. ❤️

“ Daggah choreographed and taught our entire fraternity pledge class to dance. He and I were also the jello wrestling champion duo known as “cloak and dagger.” He also helped me out in various ways and showed great generosity to many people. He also took the time to visit me in the hospital. I will always think of him as a good guy , no matter what DeCourcy says. ... jk

“ Oh Matt Dags. I did love you. We challenged each other at times! We had our share of disagreements! Never on politics tho! We always agreed on that and religion. And you always called me Birdie and put your big arms around me and say "Tweet Tweet." We always did that as our way of saying "Love You". Rest in peace big guy! Won't ever forget you. 💕🥹
